

Jobs, Pay Hit Five Year Peak

Favorable News On Earnings, Hours of Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Factory jobs, pay and hours all increased in February opposite to the winter seasonal trend, the Labor Department announced today.

Analysis of last month's employment report, which showed that the unemployment rate fell from 5.8 per cent to 5.6 per cent, brought equally favorable news in earnings and hours of work.

The department said that the work week lengthened from 39.7 hours in February to a full 40 hours, in a month in which it was expected to shorten. The average factory worker now is getting one full hour more employment a week than at the bottom of the recession a year ago, and the work week now is longer than at this season in any of the past five years.

Average weekly earnings increased slightly to $95.20. This was almost $6 higher than a year ago but only slightly ahead of January's earnings, the department said.

Employment on all industry payrolls stood at 53,747,000, a slight increase from January. A decline had been expected. Officials took satisfaction also in an increase of 53,000 in manufacturing employment, concentrated in the metals and metal-using industries.

Construction employment declined by only 29,000 in spite of harsh weather; the seasonal drop usually amounts to about 100,000.

As a result, the over-all force of workers on nonfarm payrolls climbed to a record for February and stood 1.2 million above the bottom-of-the-recession level of a year earlier. The payrolls were, in fact, at the prerecession level of May 1960.

Rogers Gets Subpoena In Hoffa Case

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—A former U. S. attorney general is under subpoena to appear today as a witness on a motion to dismiss a federal mail fraud indictment against James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters' Union.

James T. Dowd, special U. S. attorney assigned to the case, said William P. Rogers, attorney general in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration, had been subpoenaed by Hoffa attorneys.

Defense attorney Jacob Kossman said he planned to ask Rogers about wiretap information reportedly used in obtaining the indictment.

U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph P. Lieb noted that under a Justice Department executive order, Rogers could be directed not to testify about department records.

Dowd said Rogers would deny any knowledge of wiretapping.

Earlier, Lieb quashed defense subpoenas served to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg and the chairman of the Senate subcommittee, Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark.

The indictment was returned against Hoffa and Robert E. McCarthy Jr., a Detroit banking executive, Oct. 11. It charged they used the mails to promote Sun Valley, Inc., a private housing development on Florida's east coast, as a Teamsters Union retirement haven. The indictment said they misused $500,000 in Teamsters funds.

Young Baseball Player Facing Murder Charge

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—A baseball player faced a charge of murder today in the slaying of a Marine with a baseball bat.

Police said Bernard E. Young, 20, signed to a bonus contract by the Los Angeles Angels, admitted he struck Ira J. Nauden, 22, Saturday night after Nauden tried to crash his party.

Police said Young told them he grabbed a baseball bat but didn't remember actually hitting Nauden with it.

Nauden died Monday and Young was booked on suspicion of murder. Young played third base for Santa Ana College before signing with the Angels. He was to report to an Angel farm team.

Medical Aid Plan Passage Drive Is On

New York Speech An Example Of Energetic Push

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House is coordinating a massive grass roots effort aimed at driving President Kennedy's medical care program through Congress.

Administration sources point to Kennedy's engagement to address a rally boosting his program in New York's Madison Square Garden May 20 as an example of how much energy will go into the effort.

Kennedy accepted an invitation Monday to appear at the Madison Square Garden rally sponsored by an organization called the National Council of Senior Citizens and the Golden Ring Clubs of New York. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said later the White House would welcome requests from networks interested in putting the event on television and radio.

Richard Maguire, a White House assistant, is understood to be coordinating and counseling outside organizations which back Kennedy's program to finance medical care for the aged through Social Security.

The purpose is to whip up broad public support for the administration plan and to direct that support toward influencing members of Congress to adopt it against vigorous opposition of the American Medical Association and insurance groups.

The National Council of Senior Citizens is one of the major vehicles for pushing the campaign. The council was launched only last year but already claims the backing of a half million men and women around the country, many of them associated with local Golden Age clubs and other organizations of senior citizens.

Apathy Cancels Survival Course A Second Time

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—The West Side Adult School of Newark prepared a course on survival in a disaster for 400. Only four registered.

"You'd think people would be interested in learning how to take care of themselves in an emergency, such as last week's storm," said Harvey C. Black, president of the school's advisory board.

The board advised Gov. Richard J. Hughes in a letter that "appalling public apathy" has forced the school to cancel the course for a second time. The course was dropped last fall when only six registered for it.

Admission Of Failure By Castro

Serious Blunders In Planning Cause Shortages Of Food

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro, admitting his 3-year-old revolution faces serious problems, announced drastic rationing of food and other staples Monday night and declared: "We are ashamed of not fulfilling the promises made."

Castro blamed the current hardships on counter-revolutionary elements and "the brutal economic blockade"—the U. S. embargo. President Kennedy ordered last month on shipments to Cuba of nearly all American goods except medical supplies.

The bearded prime minister also admitted that his regime had made serious blunders in planning "because we made subjective analyses."

"The most serious problem of the revolution is that of supplies," he told the Cuban people in a radio-television speech. "This problem will put to the test the capacity of the revolution and the revolutionaries. There are thorns in the path."

Castro was unsmiling and his tone was often bitter as he renegeed on his promise last July that food rationing in Cuba would end toward the middle of the year.

He said nationwide rationing of rice and all types of beans—basic items in the Cuban diet—and of lard and cooking oils will begin next Monday.

$4.8 Billion Foreign Aid Program Sent to Congress

Insists Every Dollar Is Urgently Required

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy formally submitted a $4,878,500,000 foreign aid program to Congress today. He insisted every dollar is vitally needed to combat threats of communism, chaos and tyranny in other lands.

Kennedy drew a line against cutting the appropriation in a special message to Capitol Hill. Members of Congress always are inclined to cut the vast program—and show little inclination to break the habit this time.

Some of the appropriations require authorizing legislation. Hearings get under way Wednesday before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Except for fresh words of persuasion, the presidential message generally follows in all essentials previews of the aid program for the 1963 fiscal year already presented in Kennedy's budget and State of the Union message.

The President proposed $3,378,500,000 of appropriations for economic help and $1,500,000,000 for military assistance, to make up the $4,878,500,000 total.

Last year he asked for a total of $4,806,000,000 and got only $3,914,500,000—a reduction of $1,600,000,000 for military aid.

Expenditures, which always trail behind appropriations, would go up from an expected $1,935,000,000 to $2,235,000,000 for economic assistance for the 1962 and 1963 fiscal years. Those for military aid would remain unchanged at $1.4 billion for each year.

Kennedy said his recommendations are based on careful examination or urgent needs. The amounts in every category, he said, are essential to achieving the goal of strengthening developing countries to meet the stress of rapid change and to "repel Communist efforts to exploit such stress."

Contending that slashes by Congress would be hazardous, the chief executive said: "We should know by now that where weakness and dependence are not transformed into strength and self-reliance, we can expect only chaos, and then tyranny, to follow."

The only major change in the aid program this year had been announced previously. This is a request that Congress authorize a $3 billion fund to be used over the next four years for the Alliance for Progress in Latin America. Kennedy asked Congress to appropriate $600 million of the total for the coming year and said about $500 million would go to loans and $100 million to grants.

Called Impractical

Test Proposals Given The Boot

GENEVA (AP)—The United States and Britain have decided against presenting any detailed and elaborate proposals at the 17-nation disarmament conference for guarding against secret preparations to test nuclear weapons, an authoritative Western source said today.

This decision was reported as U. S. secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko talked for three hours at a luncheon, their second in two days. They were believed to have discussed some aspects of disarmament as well as the issue of Berlin, which has been their main topic.

"It is too early for any conclusions," Gromyko said as he left Rusk's lakeside hotel—an indication no agreements were reached.

Gromyko said that he presumed he and Rusk would meet again, but no date was set.

On the question of Berlin and divided Germany, Gromyko indicated he was standing by Soviet insistence on the signing of a peace treaty that would recognize Communist East Germany by saying: "An agreed solution on a peace treaty is the best solution."

As to the question of nuclear testing, the informed source said U. S. and British experts have failed to come up with a practical plan for an international inspection system that would guard against Soviet secret preparations to make a new series of nuclear tests. They also recognized that the Russians would reject any elaborate system as a scheme for espionage, it was said.

GOP Chooses Harry Naugel For Ticket

Harry Naugel, 2902 Southwest Blvd., will be the city collector candidate on the Republican ticket, providing the City accepts the resolution as passed by the Democratic City Committee, Monday night, whereby the Democrats request the Republicans be permitted to place a candidate on their ticket.

Ed Kehde, chairman of the City Republican Committee, said after learning of the resolution adopted by the Democrats, that Naugel will be their candidate, if the resolution is accepted. The Republican Committee, meeting last Thursday night, voted unanimously to nominate Naugel as the GOP candidate, if they are permitted to name one.

Kehde said the Republicans had endorsed a candidate for the school board in Bill Hiatt, "but we do so with no malice toward any other candidate, but in keeping with trying to keep the school board as a bi-partisan board."

Kehde also said, "Speaking for the Republican Party, we appreciate the action of the Democratic City Committee in taking the stand to permit our party to name a candidate for city collector."

He also announced A. W. Haller has been named as the Campaign Chairman for the City Election, and Republican headquarters are being opened in the Uptown Theatre Building.

Has Excellent Reason to Put In New Bridge

BOSTON (AP)—A North Shore legislator came up with a telling argument in urging state replacement of a bridge between Salem and Beverly over the Danvers River.

Rep. Cornelius J. Murray, R-Beverly, said the bridge was built in 1789. When the structure was only a year or so old, he said, one of those who used it was George Washington.

The bridge is regarded as the oldest in use in Massachusetts.

Salem Mayor Francis X. Collins, also favoring a new bridge, was asked by the Committee on Highways if he ever had thought of making it a historical site. "It already is one," he said.

nedy, speaking through Democratic congressional leaders after a breakfast at the White House, said U. S. negotiators are determined "to seek realistic avenues of agreement that will permit the world to move forward from this time of nuclear peril to a more secure and promising future."

He said the United States is "prepared to take action on whatever disarmament measures can be agreed upon as soon as such agreement is reached."

Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home were reported to believe the best they can hope to negotiate is an agreement providing for some sort of spot checks in known testing areas.

Heembrock Named For Collector

Demo Committee Names Candidate At Executive Meet

The Democratic City Committee, Monday night, named Aubrey Case as its new City Chairman, and also nominated Vincent P. Heembrock, 2504 Margaret, as the Democratic candidate for city collector, subject to the City election to be held Tuesday, April 3. Case succeeds William F. Brown as the committee head.

Heembrock received the nod of the committee over two other candidates in a closed session. The other candidates were Max Raines and Frank Hugelmann, whose names were presented to committee members during the open session of the meeting.

The committee voted to hold a closed or executive session during the discussion and voting on the candidate for collector. Chairman Brown, after the names had been presented, requested those present and who were not committee men or women to clear the room so the committee could make a decision as to who would represent the party on the ticket as collector.

The vote of the committee on the candidates was not announced, other than Heembrock had been elected by the committee. Heembrock had originally filed for the nomination prior to the primary after City Collector Paul Alpert had made a decision to withdraw to accept a state position. Much discussion was held over the switch, and Heembrock

Heavy Tax Bite Is Lamented By Violin Player

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Violinist Mischa Elman wants the government to save artists "from the indignities of begging" by changing the income tax structure.

"It is terribly unfair," Elman told a news conference Monday, "to tax the full amount while an artist is at his peak of earning power, rather than to pro-rate it, as he must his earnings, over an entire lifetime."

Elman admits he doesn't know just how the government would do it, but he thinks artists as individuals should have privileges similar to those accorded corporations.

"A performer is a personality, whose professional longevity depends upon his health and public fancy," said Elman. "The full tax bite inhibits his exposure and his talent."

News Conference Set for Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy plans to hold a news conference Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. EST.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Monday the news conferences are in the afternoon because the timing is better suited to the president's schedule. But Salinger said, "There'll be some in the morning."

Englishman To Speak At K&F Meeting

Members of the Knife and Fork Club will have Captain H. Cotton Minchin, an Englishman who has been living in France during the past eight years, as their guest speaker when the club meets Thursday at 7 o'clock at Bothwell Hotel.

Cotton Minchin is by no means a newcomer to the United States. As a matter of fact, the tall, former British soldier lived in the United States a great share of his life. For many years he resided in this nation's capital and later he was British Consul headquartering in Kansas City for many more years.

Eight years ago the amiable captain retired and left the states. After spending a little time in England he moved with his wife to Casa Cappella, Montee Bu Chateau, Cagnes-sur-mer, France. It is from there that he is coming to the United States. While in this country he will speak to approximately 40 dinner clubs affiliated with the Associated Network to which the club here belongs. Cotton Minchin's tour will take him to more than a dozen states.

While the Captain has been "retired" he has by no means been inactive. Always engaged in politics and the economy of his country, he still watches with a wary eye all the things that go on internationally. Hence, his address "Uncle Sam and His Friends," has a distinctly current and American viewpoint.

While the Captain speaks about Uncle Sam and all his European associates, he is able to speak with accuracy and authority on the critical Berlin situation. De Gaulle, too, is one of the key men about whom the Captain speaks.

announced publicly that he was withdrawing from the race himself in fairness to Alpert and himself that there was no collusion over the filing. As a result the ticket was left open in the primary.

The Republicans had failed to file anyone for the place and had protested furiously over the incident and any filing of the ticket after the primary by the Democrats.

However, the Democratic Committee voted unanimously a resolution asking the City to permit the Republican Party to provide a candidate for collector on the Republican ticket subject to the city election. Chairman Brown in making the announcement, remarked, "Maybe this will be vetoed too," which drew laughter from the audience.

The Committee also made an endorsement of one Democrat for the Sedalia Public School Board. George Thompson, one of two Democrats who have filed for the Board, received the Democratic nod.

Brown explained that prior to the city holding primary elections the Democrats and Republicans would hold caucus meetings following by the City convention. At the City convention it was customary for the parties to nominate a candidate for the School Board, this being done to keep the board a bi-partisan group and to keep politics out of the school system. But with the abolishing of the caucus system and going into primaries, school board candidates only have to file with the Secretary of the School Board and the two receiving the highest number of votes are elected.

Brown also pointed out the Republicans at their Committee meeting endorsed one of the two who seek a place on the Board. He brought out the School Board election still rests with the public and the two receiving the highest number of votes will be elected, regardless of the endorsements.

Prior to the reorganization of the newly elected City Committee, Chairman Brown called upon the candidates to give short talks. Julian H. Bagby, former Mayor, was first to be called upon and he expressed his sincere appreciation to those who supported him in the primary and asked all Democrats to come "into the fold" and support the Democratic ticket unanimously during the city election.

Leonard Ditzfeld, candidate for Chief of Police; John C. McCloskey, candidate for City Attorney; Heembrock, the new candidate for Collector; Mrs. Rosie Pearl Robb, candidate for City Treasurer, who is unopposed; and Raymond C. Roberts, candidate for Councilman from the Fourth Ward, were all presented and gave short talks of appreciation and urged the Democrats to support the ticket.

Candidates who were not present were Walter Jesse, candidate for Councilman in the second ward, who was in St. Louis; E. B. Smith, candidate for the Council in the first ward, who was out of town on business; and James A. "Pat" Clark, candidate for the Council in the third ward. John M. Blue, candidate for assessor, was unable to be present.

Lawrence Koeller, Councilman from the third ward, gave a short talk and thanked the Democrats for their support given him a year ago.

Chairman Brown then announced the time had come for the Committee to reorganize and elect officers. He then stated he was definitely not a candidate for reelection as City Chairman.

Aubrey Case, who was the campaign manager for Bagby during the primary campaign was nominated by Charles Leftwick, and he was elected by acclamation. Case thanked the committee and said, "I cannot say this is a surprise, as I was contacted prior to the meeting regarding serving as the Chairman. I am highly honored even to have been considered for the Chairmanship."

Mrs. Lucy Davis, committee-woman of the third precinct, fourth ward, president of the Pettis County Women's Democratic Club, was elected as secretary-treasurer of the committee.

After the election Case, spoke briefly on the recent primary, and expressed a desire for all Democrats to get back together, support the entire ticket. "Let's put them in and see the town go," Case concluded.

It was under the new organization the discussion over the endorsement of the member of the School Board came up. It was brought out the Republicans had endorsed a candidate, and some committee members felt a Democrat should be endorsed.

Palmer Nichols moved to endorse George Thompson and the motion was seconded. Under the discussion Charles Leftwick stated he wasn't in favor of endorsing anyone at this time. He explained he felt the committee should wait and see who all would file before making such a move.

On the voting Thompson received a majority, there were no opposing votes.

Chairman Case then asked the committee men and women to meet in the Assembly room for a short discussion with him, the men and women to get in groups representing their own wards.

The official committee meeting was then adjourned.

cepted the entire panel, and called a short recess while the 12 jurors were selected.

The 12 men selected were W. P. Nicholson, Ernest L. Jones, Clarence Leiter, Henry F. Neiman, D. C. Davis, W. G. Jaekel, Elbert Trueblood, Dick Keenan, Elmer Winfrey, F. G. Buchanan, E. P. Hixson and Raymond Richardson.

Fritz explained to the jury that the state charged that Singleton sold the items to the Youngs, and that Mrs. Young made the actual purchase. He explained that the buyer, under the "blue laws," is not subject to prosecution, but the seller is held liable.

Mrs. Young was the first witness called to the stand. She stated that she and her husband are working on a new home, and needed the light and screwdriver set to finish a job on the home. She stated they went to the Singleton market and bought the items.

She stated she did see, on the door leading into the store, a sign indicating unnecessary items were not for sale. She also stated Singleton was behind the counter, and accepted payment for the items without question.

Fairfax then took the stand and testified he and the prosecuting attorney were outside the establishment, watching customers come and go. He said he noticed the Youngs emerge from the store, and asked them if they would show him the items they purchased. They cooperated fully with the sheriff, showing him the items, and agreed to testify in court that they had purchased them at Singleton's.

Fairfax admitted, on questioning by Brown, that he noticed a sign on the building at the door, pertaining to the "blue law," but said he did not recall exactly how it was worded.

The issue to an observer seemed to concern the "immediate necessity" of selling a screwdriver set and a light fixture on Sunday. Judge Armstrong pointed out several times during the trial that the decision on the immediate necessity of the sale was up to the jury.

The jury retired for deliberation just before noon, and returned about one hour later with the verdict.

Two other charges of exposing unnecessary items for sale on the same day are pending in Magistrate Court against Singleton.

Community Concert Board Dissolves Its Organization

At a recent meeting of the Community Concert Board members, the organization which has been on an inactive status since April, 1960, was officially dissolved. The apparent lack of public interest and a decrease in membership prompted the decision. The board expressed their appreciation and thanks to the president, Oscar H. DeWolf, for his untiring efforts to promote community concerts.

An artist piano bench, property of the association, was given to the board of education to be used at Smith-Cotton High School. The Board members voted that the remaining funds be contributed to the Sedalia Concert Band and the Helen G. Steele Music Club Memorial Loan Fund for the promotion of better music in Sedalia.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Toddlers are by nature inquisitive and acquisitive. (Ever know one who didn't want everything he could lay his hands on?) And somehow, your favorite "what-nots" are always most desirable. A few helps to satisfy baby's curiosity . . . spare your breakables and your patience:

- Let baby have safe things to inspect. Pots 'n pans have great play and put-together value.
- It's wise to remove non-touchables before baby sees them. Be surprised how this cuts down "no-no's."

Thumbs down. You can cut down excessive thumbsucking if you: (1) provide toys and play 2-way games that require the use of both hands; (2) distract your toddler with a finger-food snack.

New, nutritious snack or main course: Gerber Meat Sticks . . . the fine-and-dandy finger food for toddlers. These delicious tiny wienies are made from selected Armour Pork and Beef, plus non-fat dry milk. The happy result? Flavor galore . . . body-building protein to spare. Heat slightly or serve at room temperature. P.S. Gerber Meat Sticks make wonderful sandwich fillings for older children.

Shoe cue. Toddlers dearly love to do things with their hands. Why not give your pet a pair of outgrown shoes to play with? He'll have fun trying to lace 'em, acquire deftness to boot.

Table talk for tots with more "grown-up" tastes. Gerber Junior Foods are seasoned with a just-right touch for developing taste buds. Straight food flavors sing! Combination foods, like the dinners or high meat dinners, are wonderfully tasty . . . have a "second helping" quality to tempt even a persnickiest eater. As for nourishment, Gerber Junior Foods are prepared to preserve the utmost in nutritive values. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Readers: I considered the matter of the "chaste bride" closed but the mail continues to pour in. Obviously there are a great number of individuals who can write but cannot read.

Here is an example. This little gem came from Mrs. M. C. of Detroit: "Dear Ann Landers: We are deeply disappointed in you. You said 'It is nobody's business if the signs of pregnancy show beneath the white dress and veil.' How could you make such a statement? In my opinion a girl who waited so long to get married does not deserve to have a fancy wedding. If this happened to a daughter of mine she would be married as quickly and as quietly as possible."

Mrs. M. C. placed quotes around words which came straight out of her head. The lines which she generously attributed to me did not appear in my column.

Perhaps someone ought to sit down with Mrs. M. C. and explain to her the difference between virginity and pregnancy. My reply went like this: "A bride does not owe her guests an affidavit of chastity. Whether or not she is as pure as the soap that floats is not your business."

The letter which set off this 50 megaton explosion was written by a woman who felt that NO bride, save the purest of the pure, should be allowed to wear traditional white. I took exception to this on the grounds that it is impossible to recognize virtue on sight. The unsullied, the slightly sullied and the out-and-out tramps look alike. Since this is the case I say we should assume the best and not sit around and second-guess the bride.

It hardly seems worth saying, but I think I'll say it anyway, and leave no room for speculation — a bride who must release the seams of her white satin gown to make room for an heir who is half way home, makes a fool of herself, and richly deserves the criticism of those who are invited to witness the mockery.

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is a whopper. It's in-laws — both of them. My husband's parents are semi-invalids. They depend on me for a great deal. I do their marketing, prepare two meals a day for them, keep their home in order, do their laundry and drive them to the doctor. My husband can do nothing for them as he is a traveling salesman and is gone from Monday through Friday.

The folks are not very well off financially and they can't afford outside help. Their large home is hard for me to keep up and it's quite a distance from our apartment. I'm exhausted just running back and forth. There will soon be a vacancy in our apartment building and it would be so much easier on me if they would sell their home and move in. My mother-in-law says she doesn't want to give up her home. After 22 years she is attached to it.

I can see her point, but can you see MINE? Please, Ann, say something. — POOPED.

Dear Pooped: Since your husband can "do nothing for them" he can certainly do something for YOU. He can insist that his parents give up their large home and move into an apartment near you.

You sound like an angel to me. A daughter-in-law who so willingly doubles as a chauffeur, cook, maid and laundress should be given some consideration.

Sue Heckart Home From Meet in KC

Miss Sue Heckart of this city, has returned from a two day regional group meeting of National Selected Morticians. The meeting was held at the Hotel Muehlebach in Kansas City.

Gillespie Funeral Home is Sedalia's member of National Selected Morticians, an organization where membership is extended by invitation only — after a thorough, on the spot, intensive investigation. This examination includes a public opinion poll to determine representative and leadership qualifications, evaluation of physical facilities and service, and a review of business and management practices and policies.

Invitation and continuation of membership are contingent upon achievement and maintenance of the highest business and moral standards, complete funeral home facilities, and observance of a strict Code of Ethics, all to provide funeral service in the public interest. Membership may be withdrawn for failure to comply with the above requirements.

Gillespie Funeral Home has been a member of National Selected Morticians since 1949. Miss Heckart said the two day meeting was an educational program designed to aid members in providing the highest standards of service dedicated to serving the public as it wishes to be served.

Meetings featured management and service procedures, and allowed members to discuss mutual problems and exchange ideas with each benefiting from the experiences of others.

Honor the Past - - Serve the Future

No one can fully evaluate contributions the Girl Scout program has made in the development of womanhood and citizenship as that organization observes its 50th anniversary this week.

But we are witness to the beneficial effects it has and maintains among many of Sedalia's present day matrons who received training in the Girl Scouts since the first troop was organized here in 1920 by Miss Lou Eva Longan. The movement was further inspired two years later when a second troop was organized and a local committee composed of Mrs. Fred Hoffman, Mrs. J. A. Lamy and Mrs. George Trader, assumed the task of sponsorship and development of this new organization for girls.

Nationally the Girl Scouts are proud of a membership today of 3½ million. This includes more than 2½ million girls and nearly 800,000 adults. Oddly enough we are informed, 40,000 of the adults membership consists of men!

Girls from 7 through 9 years are

Brownie Scouts; from 10 through 13, Intermediate Scouts; from 14 through 17, Senior Scouts. The three groups participate in a single Scouting program adapted to the girls' age levels. Each group has its own uniform.

The Girl Scouts' moral code, with its emphasis on honesty, integrity, alertness, understanding of and compassion for others, is a pattern that can hardly be improved. If our future lies in the hands of women fortified by such training, equipped with such skills, and stimulated by such interests and motives, our community and our nation face a bright future.

We would be remiss, indeed, not to express gratitude to the Girl Scouts of Sedalia and the leadership which inspires continued activities for a better moral community.

On this 50th anniversary of the national organization and during the 42nd year among us in Sedalia, we doff our hat in tribute to the Girl Scouts in their determination to live up to their theme: "Honor the Past—Serve the Future."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Home Loan Chief on Trip to Europe

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The savings and loan industry, one of the biggest financial groups in the country, has been buzzing over a luxury tour taken by Kennedy's chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board, Joseph P. McMurray and his wife, under the auspices of the Henry Luce publications — Time, Life, Fortune, and House and Home magazines.

The two-week tour, part of the time in two chartered plane, carried bankers, architects, builders, and building suppliers to London, Copenhagen, Amsterdam and Paris to study European housing.

The fact that a chosen few from the savings and loan industry were selected by House and Home magazine and other Luce Publications to get better acquainted with McMurray on this intimate two-week trip is what has aroused resentment on the part of other bankers in the $90 billion industry.

Unlike a convention, which any banker could attend, only a few could make the trip on the chartered planes. Their inclusion depended on the Luce Publications.

Mr. McMurray, when questioned about the trip, was quite frank. He said he went along chiefly to inspect new European housing developments and to improve his contacts in the housing field, which he believes to be in the government interest.

"I had expected to charge the government for my own expenses and pay for my wife's out of my own pocket," he said. "But if you think this is a pleasure junket, I'll give the taxpayers the benefit of the doubt and pay the entire expense myself."

When House and Home magazine was queried regarding details of the trip, the call was finally put through to Bernard Barnes, a vice president of Time magazine, who confirmed that those on the junket would be billed for their expenses, but had not been as yet. It took some time, he said, to straighten out the books.

Details Of Trip

A House and Home representative spent about a month in Europe arranging for the trip and there was hardly a detail that wasn't taken care of for the home builders and their bankers — even including tips.

Two TWA jets carried the party across the Atlantic to London where they stayed at the Savoy for five days. In Amsterdam the party stayed at four different hotels — The Carlton, Doelen, Europe, and Victoria — for three days, then moved on to Paris for five days.

Among the bankers picked by House and Home for the trip were Howard Edgerton, of the Great Western Financial Corp., biggest savings and loan outfit in the USA; Floyd

Cramer of Washington Heights Federal in New York; John De Laittre of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank in Minneapolis; and Carlton Stallard of the Jersey Mortgage Co., Elizabeth, all with their wives.

Also along were representatives of Alcoa, Kohler, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, Portland Cement, Du Pont, and Dow Chemical.

This column was the first to report on the trips which John Doerfer, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, took to industry conventions and charged both to the government and to the taxpayers. His trip as the guest of one broadcaster eventually led to his forced resignation from the Eisenhower administration.

Mr. Doerfer is a Republican, Mr. McMurray a Democrat. Mr. McMurray did not collect from both the government and the industry as did Doerfer, but he did make himself available to a few select members of the industry on a pleasant trip, as did Doerfer. And like Doerfer he holds great power over an industry which he must regulate without favor.

CIA Trees VS Parking

One reason why the beautiful new Central Intelligence Building doesn't have enough parking lots for its several thousand commuting employees is because of an inspection trip which Allen Dulles, then chief of CIA, took to his new building last year.

The building, about 15 miles from Washington overlooking a beautiful gorge of the Potomac, was Dulles' pride and joy. Looking out over the parking lot, however, he expressed disappointment.

"Where are the trees?" he said.

Whereupon part of the paving already laid on the north parking lot was torn up in order to plant trees. This made it necessary to put in new curbing. The other parking lots had not yet been paved, so planting trees in them used up part of the parking space.

Since the CIA building was already short on parking space, thanks to faulty planning, it has been necessary to use adjacent land of the Bureau of Public Roads, which, however, is quite a hike from the CIA building.

Meanwhile many Bureau chiefs have to spend their time picking up their stenographers, secretaries and administrative assistants in car pools back and forth to the CIA building.

No Censorship

There was certainly no military censorship when it came to Gen. Curtis Le May's differing with the White House and his own boss, Secretary of Defense McNamara, over the B-70.

Though Secretary McNamara overruled Le May regarding the necessity of the B-70, he invited him to present his views personally to the President. Kennedy listened attentively but also rejected Le May's appeal. However, both Kennedy and McNamara agreed that the General should give Congress his honest views. Le May did so.

In brief, military censorship is exercised on political and foreign affairs matters on which the Generals are not experts; but they are not censored in regard to defense matters on which they are experts.

Busting Up the Show

It is understandable enough that the conservative Young Americans for Freedom are disappointed at losing another star attraction, President Moise Tshombe of Katanga, for their big March rally in New York.

Previously they had lost Gen. Edwin A. Walker, now a candidate for governor of Texas, and Sen. Thomas Dodd, Connecticut Democrat who recently visited the Congo.

YAF leaders argue Tshombe has a "right to speak his piece" and to present his side of the tangled fight between himself and the central Congolese government under Cyrille Adoula.

Yet over the past-18 months, Tshombe has advertised his case so fully, by both word and notion, that the whole world seems to know about it.

Kennedy's Technique With Congress

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's strategy with a Congress run by his own Democrats seems to call for a broad variety of proposals but an all-out pitch for just a few.

He followed this course last year. He has done the same so far this year, although 1962 is still young. It's a technique which avoids a bruising fight with Congress. It also leaves a lot of people disappointed.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Work on repairing damage done at the Missouri State Fair grounds during the severe sleet storm in January has begun, Charles W. Green, secretary, announced. The storm caused approximately $10,000 damages to trees, light poles, broken wires and some damage to buildings.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Rev. Fr. Thomas F. Prendergast, pastor of St. Patrick's church and members of the parish are considering the proposition of excavating beneath the ground floor of the church and constructing a large hall for accommodation of the church societies. A new parish house will also be erected as soon as a plan is decided on.

W. D. Smith, of Carrollton, was unanimously chosen secretary of the Missouri State Fair at a special meeting of the board of directors held in the Women's building at the fair grounds. He succeeds E. G. Bylander who resigned to accept a similar position with the Arkansas State Fair. Mr. Smith was formerly a deputy state labor commissioner and later served temporarily as executive secretary to Governor Hyde.

The 1961 result was a great many measures approved, if only in a chopped down, diluted version of what he asked. In actual number of items passed the list was impressive.

Not passed were some of his most controversial requests—ones on which he talked bigger than he acted. On these he could hardly claim he fought very hard.

Two of his most important programs last year, from the standpoint of national safety and foreign affairs, were his foreign aid program and his request for billions for defense.

He fought for them and he got them, although Congress whittled his foreign aid request from $4,806,000,000 to $3,914,500,000.

But in 1961 Congress by-passed, and Kennedy didn't fight for, federal aid to education, medical care for the aged and civil rights legislation. He had promised much on civil rights in 1960.

He is dealing with a Democratic Congress which is increasingly conservative. When the very conservative Southern Democrats and Republicans join forces there is in effect a third party.

If Kennedy, for example, made a vigorous effort to get civil rights legislation he might anger his Southern Democrats so much some of his other programs would suffer.

An effort to avoid this seems to be the only explanation for his failure to do more than he did. In the age of television a president who runs into a wall in Congress doesn't have to stop there.

He can go over the heads of Congress by explaining the need for his program directly to the people and asking their help in

Search for Freedom (2) The First Law

It was a terrifying world and a harsh existence. Life was a continual search for food and fight against wild beasts and the elements. Everywhere mysterious things happened, such as raging fires and storms. The world was full of spirits—in the trees, in the water, in the sky. They were strong and must be served.

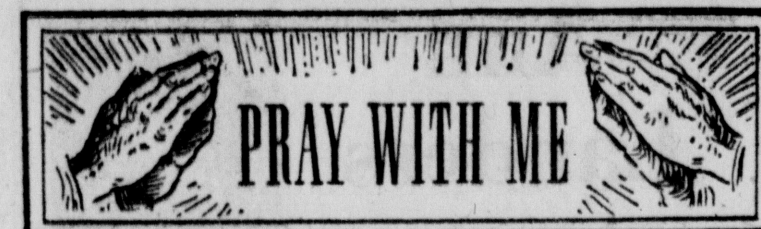

Such was probably the general view of prehistoric man. To speak of human freedom in such a world is meaningless. Man was held in bondage by his ignorance of physical laws and by his own superstition.

The story of the development of human society must largely be guessed at. Probably, early ape man ran in herds and only later did the family come into being. Families led to clans and tribes, which for thousands of years were the bounds of man's world.

Custom was the only law, and leaders were often only the strong or those who had influence with the spirits and gods. But men were more or less equal in the absence of class distinctions and any organized political system to curb individual freedom.

The great law of custom was the lex talionis, the law of the talon: an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. An injured party, or his kindred, had the right to inflict an exact injury on the guilty party, or his kindred. It was a rudimentary, private kind of justice

Senator from Missouri

God of the nations, as we lift to Thee our fervent prayer for our land bright with freedom's holy light—

Not for battleships and missiles,
Not for conquests of the sword;
But for conquests of the spirit
Give we thanks to Thee, O Lord,
For the priceless gift of freedom,
For the home, the church, the school;
For the open door to manhood
In a land the people rule.

For our prophets and apostles
Loyal to the living word;
For all heroes of the spirit,
Give we thanks to Thee, O Lord.
God of justice, save our people
From the clash of race and creed,
From the strife of class and faction
Make our Nation free indeed.
Keep her faith in simple goodness
Strong as when her life began,
Till it finds its full fruition
In the Brotherhood of man.
We ask it in the dear Redeemer's name.
Amen.

(This prayer was offered by the Senate Chaplain, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, in opening the Senate on September 10, 1959.)

The Mature Parent

Ready 'Yes' of Parents Is a Spoiler of Children

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

My husband has had a fight with my step-daughter over the way she and her husband spoil their 7-year-old girl. The child gets her own way in everything because her parents know that she is jealous of their younger girl. Her bedtime is 8:30 but when we are at the house she is allowed to hang around in the living room arguing and fighting about going upstairs until 10 o'clock. Last Sunday night my husband got mad and went home early because he couldn't stand it. But I don't want trouble and keep telling him that it's none of his business. . . .

ANSWER: Maybe he is fond of his granddaughter.

If we like a child, we do not enjoy watching his parents give him what they begrudge giving him.

It is not pleasant to be a child whose parents let you have what they don't want you to have. You may win the ice cream cone or the delayed bedtime — but your victory is lonely for you know that your parents take no pleasure in your satisfaction. You know they are against it.

So two things happen. You have to look to more delayed bedtimes and ice cream cones — to more material satisfactions — for your pleasure. And gradually you stop caring about whether your parents want you to have them or not. You begin to figure, "People hate giving to me."

If the begrudged giving continues, you soon find yourself developing a cynical disregard of what other people feel when you take from them — and such disregard is a dangerous development.

In attempting to protect this little girl against jealousy, her parents may be exposing her to more destructive feelings.

A "spoiled" child is always one whose parents begrudge giving to. He demands from us endlessly, not because he wants the things he demands but because he is driven by the hope that someday we'll be able to take pleasure in his pleasure.

Your step-daughter and her husband are trying to express love for their child by giving her what they don't want her to have. Sometimes if our wish to love a child is real, we can look at the way we are showing it and think, "All right, I let Susan postpone bedtime because I am afraid of offending her. All right, part of my love is fear. But some of it is also real concern for Susan's life. If I am pushing her into loneliness every time I give her something I begrudge giving, then I must find the courage to say 'No.' I must follow that 'No' wherever it leads me because I now see that it expresses love."

Sometimes parents can't do this. Their own parents have made an obedient "Yes" equal love so deeply that a "No" cannot be risked. They have to keep on saying "Yes" to the child because a "No" to their parents brought catastrophe. They are the "spoil-ers" of children.

Building Contracts Above Those in 1961

NEW YORK (AP) — Contracts for future construction in Missouri in January were 20 per cent above the figure of January, 1961. The national increase was 7 per cent.

The F. W. Dodge Corp., reported the dollar volume for the state at $52,390,000, broken down as follows:

Non-residential, $18,390,000, up 30 per cent; residential, $12,202,000, down 20 per cent and heavy engineering, $21,281,000, up 53 per cent.

matter of fact

Early Egyptians worshiped cats. Some historians, however, interpret this worship as purely practical. Cats were tamed by the Egyptians in about 3000 B.C. to protect stores of grain. Probably in order to better protect the lives of these animals some smart farmer suggested that the cat represented one of the gods.

NORFOLK LEDGER-DISPATCH: Hi, Ho, Silver and the U.S. Mail. — Maybe the Post Office Department has something up its sleeve better than automation in its efforts to improve postal service.

This thought is prompted by the news that some people down in the Ozark mountain country of Missouri have asked the department to trade in its mail truck there for a horse. The truck, it seems, gets bogged down on flooded roads and fails to deliver the mail.

It turns out, surprisingly, that the Post Office already has some 24 ponies carrying the mail on rural routes in West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arizona and New Mexico.

It may just be a coincidence, but we now recall some rumblings of dissatisfaction with the progress of mechanization in the department. At one place the automated mail-sorter went berserk and started throwing out all envelopes bearing Christmas seals. At another a talking stamp-vending machine gave patrons a lot of conversation — but no stamps — for their nickels and dimes.

Is it possible that this seemingly insignificant number of four-footed mail carriers is the vanguard of a counter-revolution in the Post Office, a realization that the old ways were the best? After all, it only took the Pony Express seven days to deliver a letter to California 100 years ago, which is better time than some of the Christmas cards we received made.

We suppose it's just wishful thinking. But it would be nice if they could reverse the course of progress enough to get back to penny postcards and mail delivery twice a day.

rather than the concern of the community. Later, composition—payment for injuries—softened the harshness of primitive retaliation.

Somewhere around 10,000 B.C., men learned the art of agriculture and settled in the fertile valleys of Egypt and Mesopotamia. The city was born, and along with it came the beginning of writing and culture. But there also arose the landowning class, kings and aristocracies and wars for land and the necessity for human slavery and bondage to the land and to the ruler. The stage was set for the long human war between freedom and tyranny.

Historians Still Seeking Real Jackson Birthplace

By J. MICHAEL ROUSE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Thursday we can all observe the birthday of Andrew Jackson, soldier, statesman and seventh president of the United States. He was born March 15, 1767 at—

Well, we don't know exactly where.

Most reference books say it was in the Waxhaw settlement in Lancaster County, South Carolina. North Carolina says it isn't so—that Jackson was born just across the border in Union County, North Carolina.

The Tar Heel state has hired a young historian, Max Harris, to determine which. If he succeeds in settling the 195-year-old argument, one of the states will have to tear down a monument.

"Here was born, March 15, 1767, Andrew Jackson, seventh president of the United States," reads the legend on a monument in a wooded area of Union County, N.C.

A half-mile away, just across the state line in South Carolina, is another monument to Jackson's birth. It stands on the edge of South Carolina's Andrew Jackson State Park.

The story begins in 1765 when Andrew Jackson Sr., an Irishman, settled with his family in the Waxhaw Indian lands spanning the border of the Carolinas, just inside North Carolina.

He died two years later, leaving two small sons, Robert and Hugh, and a pregnant wife.

Mrs. Jackson decided to move to the plantation home of a sister

Family Looking To Spring So Pet Can Go Out

SUDBURY, Mass. (AP)—The Charles Mundo family keeps a horse in the house while Mrs. Mundo hopes for an early spring so the horse can be put outdoors.

How come?

Seems the animal, now 100 pounds and about the same size as the family's Great Dane, is the offspring of a Shetland pony and a saddle mare who'd rather forget it.

In any case the mare had no time for 5-week-old Sonny Boy so the Mundos, who own six horses, took pity and bottle-fed him.

Yup, he's housebroken.

and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford, just inside South Carolina.

Enter the controversy.

The South Carolinians say Mrs. Jackson and her sons arrived at the Crawford's before Andy was born.

Not so, say the North Carolinians. Labor pains, they claim, set in on the journey, and she stopped at the home of another sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George McKemie (or McKamie) and gave birth to the child, moving on to the Crawford's when he was six weeks old.

The site of the McKemie cabin is on the North Carolina side of the boundary—by a distance of 407 yards.

Jackson was the only president in U.S. history with two "home states" and, apparently relishing the situation, he never directly disputed the claims of either one.

Each of the Carolinians can furnish direct quotes from Old Hickory himself backing up its claim.

Jackson said in 1828 that he was born in South Carolina. In 1831, he said North Carolina.

North Carolinians say he changed his mind between those dates, because of affidavits obtained by a Jackson campaign manager which supposedly told the story of the McKemie cabin.

Even Virginia entered the picture in the 1850s, claiming she was the home state of Andrew Jackson.

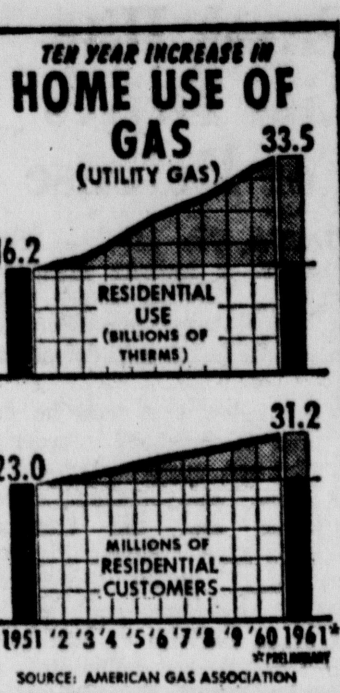

This prompted Col. Samuel Walkup of Monroe, N.C., Union County seat, to set about obtaining more affidavits from elderly residents of the Waxhaws. These documents also tell the McKemie cabin story.

Some historians say that when Jackson was born, the McKemie cabin was in South Carolina.

The surveyor establishing the first boundary between the two states made an error. It wasn't settled until the king of England intervened in 1771. When the new boundary was drawn, the McKemie cabin came inside North Carolina.

Last year, the North Carolina General Assembly appropriated $12,500 to pay for an investigation to settle the question. Harris was hired two months ago to do the job.

"I'm not trying to prove Jackson was born in North Carolina," Harris says, "I just want to find out definitely where he was born."

JFK Maps Out Foreign Aid Budget Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy details for Congress today just what he wants in the way of foreign aid money.

In his budget message last Jan. 18, he asked foreign aid appropriations of $4,897,000,000, compared with $3,914,500,000 Congress voted last year.

The President said in his budget message that all of the increase would be in economic aid—mostly in long-term loans and grants for development projects.

He said at that time that the arms aid rate would remain about the same. He asked for $1.5 billion in new military assistance funds, down $100 million from last year's appropriation.

To Seek More Cash for Corps

WASHINGTON (AP)—Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver will describe activities of his organization during its first year to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today and present a plea for more money.

With projects under way or scheduled in 32 nations, the Peace Corps budget calls for an increase from $30 million in the fiscal year ending June 30 to $63.75 million next year.

Current plans call for 2,400 volunteers to be either overseas or in training by June 30, with the figure to be boosted to 6,700 by the same date in 1963.

Former Priest Must Appear In Domestic Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A former priest whose wife says he was spirited to California by the Catholic church must appear in Domestic Relations Court March 19 to answer charges of failure to support his four children.

Walter Ryan, 37, turned up here last week after his wife sued the church in Mineola, N.Y., for $2,375,000 over his disappearance.

The child support action began in January 1960 at the request of New York authorities. Just before Ryan reappeared, an assistant district attorney here said nothing had happened in the case because "I've never been able to find him." The order to appear was given Monday.

The wife, Alice, 41, of Glen Head, L.I., said Catholics spirited her husband away in 1955 and kept him a prisoner in monasteries. They were married in 1950 while he was assistant pastor of the Glen Cove parish.

Ryan said he came to California on his own free will and lived quietly, excommunicated by the church because he broke his vow of celibacy. He maintains he contributed more than $10,000 to his family since leaving.

Navy Plans Kindergarten Classes for 6 Porpoises

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP)—Porpoises have turned out to be so bright the Navy's going to send six of them to school.

They'll start in an underwater kindergarten—a 50-foot-diameter pool now being built beside a lagoon at this headquarters of the Pacific Missile range, where the sea-going mammals will be taught to count, fetch, tow objects under water and, hopefully, even talk.

While they're learning, Navy scientists will be learning, too. The Navy wants to know how porpoises can swim so fast—up to 40 miles an hour—how they communicate with each other, and how their prey-spotting sonar works.

Answers to these questions could lead to torpedoes and submarines now envisioned only in science fiction. And who knows what else scientists will learn, once they start talking with porpoises?

Belief that porpoises can be taught to speak arose from experiments with a young female named Notty, who died a few months ago. Notty learned to recognize the words "ball," "hat," "ring" and "stick" and to fetch these items on voice command.

Porpoises apparently communicate with each other by means of beeps they make with the blowholes in the tops of their bulging heads. While Notty was alive, scientists began recording these sounds and duplicating them in an effort to converse with Notty in her own language.

Despite her achievements, Notty was a disappointment to Navy scientists. She wasn't very fast—16 knots was her best recorded speed—and there were rumors she wasn't too bright as porpoises go.

She may have been bored and lonely. Notty was always kept by herself in a special tank at Marineland in Los Angeles. They didn't want her picking up the horn-toting, basketball-playing tricks of her show-business cousins.

DIFFERENT?

What's different about Rambler's rustproofing?

It goes all the way up to the roof. For the body alone, Rambler uses a 9-step process, including exclusive Deep-Dip—where the entire body is immersed right up to the roof in a 40-foot-long tank of rustproofing primer paint. Rambler actually spills more rustproofing than other cars use.

What's different about Rambler's brakes?

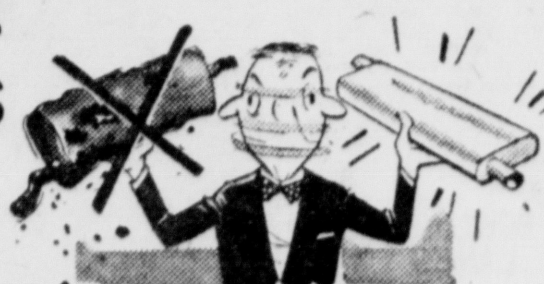

They stop when other brakes can't. Rambler's Double-Safety Brake System has tandem master cylinders with separate hydraulic systems for front and rear brakes. If one fails, other still works. Self-adjusting, too—and standard equipment, all models. (Cadillac is only other U.S. car with similar brakes.)

What's different about Rambler's headroom?

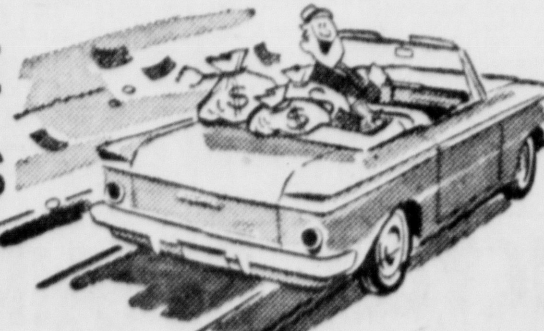

It's greater than any other American car's. All Ramblers are roomy, but Classic 6 and Ambassador V-8 beat all other makes in front-seat headroom (even Cadillac)—can seat six 6-footers easily. Rambler is the only one with the best of both: big-car room, comfort and performance, with compact-car price, economy and handling ease.

What's different about Rambler's muffler and tailpipe?

They won't rust out—we'll pay the cost if they do. Exclusive Ceramic-Armored muffler and tailpipe are so resistant to rust-out and corrosion, they are guaranteed against defect for as many years as you own your new Rambler. If either rusts out, collision damage excepted, go to a Rambler dealer for free replacement.

What's different about Rambler's prices?

They're America's lowest. Only Rambler has America's lowest suggested retail prices for 2-door and 4-door sedans and wagons—and America's lowest-priced convertible (has power top, standard). Every Rambler is quality-built with traditional Rambler excellence—is more trouble-free—enjoys high resale value.

Roughers Go for Broke

Wrestling Card Promises
Exciting Action Tonight

It's go for broke by the roughers at Convention Hall tonight when they swing into action against skilled, versatile opponents. Power tactics may not be enough.

For Buddy Austin, the 250-pound San Francisco belter, Sonny Myers promises to offer a severe test. Austin may find his unruly methods ineffective against the Missourian simply because Myers has wrestled them all, the big ones and the tough ones, and knows how to take care of himself in the ring.

Myers already has given Austin some uncomfortable moments, sending him to dreamland on a couple of occasions with the sleeper hold. Austin's power-studded attack is not always a sure means of turning back a foe, especially one as ring wise as Myers. The Missouri battler has the knack of sidestepping wild swings and ending up with his opponent flat on the floor as the result of a quick throw hold.

Another sturdy pair, Stan Stasiak and Lee Henning, will share top billing on the card, but they too will find they'll have their work cut out for them. They'll be facing a canny, fleet-footed French combo that has made an impressive showing in team action to date. They are matched against Marcel DuPont and Maurice LaPointe, a smooth-functioning pair with a fine sense of timing and particularly adept at holds that require something more than just sheer power.

Stasiak and LaPointe will come together in a separate scrap, while two colorful midgets, Bull Brummell and Little Boy Blue, are also due for action.

Tickets can be obtained at the Pacific Cafe or Crown Drug Store.

Golden Boy
To Plug Up
Outfield Hole

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Milwaukee Mgr. Birdie Tebbetts doesn't claim everything he touches turns to gold, but he's beginning to think he has found a golden boy to plug up one of his gaping outfield holes.

Mack Jones, 23, up from Louisville, has hit four home runs in the Braves' three exhibition contests. He also has driven in eight runs and has been conducting himself as though he is made to order.

As a result of the expansion of the National League to 10 teams, the Braves lost flychaser Frank Thomas and John Demerit to the New York Mets and Al Spangler to the Houston Colts.

That left Hank Aaron and Lee Maye to man two of the spots, and Tebbetts had to start scrambling for another replacement.

Jones, a 6-1, 180-pound lefty swinger, hit .326 with 11 homers at Louisville last year. Toward the end of the season the Braves brought him up for a look, and he compiled an undistinguished .231 mark in 28 games with nary a homer.

Jones clouted No. 4 Monday and drove in another run in the Braves' 5-1 decision over the Cincinnati Reds at Bradenton, Fla. Catcher Bob Uecker also hit a homer, and Howie Bedell, Jones No. 1 challenge for the vacant left-field spot, had a pair of singles.

While Tebbetts was rubbing his hands in glee at his new find, two other members of the lodge, Casey Stengel of the Mets and Billy Hitchcock of the Baltimore Orioles, came close to wringing their mitts in despair.

Stengel almost lost rookie outfielder Jim Hickman, who was struck high on the right cheekbone by Ray Herbert of the Chicago White Sox. Hickman, 24, went down when the ball hit and was taken to a Sarasota hospital.

X-rays proved negative, and physicians said they were certain he was not hurt badly. He was to return to the club today.

Hitchcock saw star pitcher Milt Pappas taken to a hospital, where he was operated on for appendicitis. Pappas, who compiled 3.03 last year on a 13-9 record, complained of pains Monday morning and was operated on a few hours later.

Waterfowl Population Hits
Lowest Point in 11 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The continuing season to determine how waterfowl population has reached the lowest point in 11 years, the Interior Department announced Monday.

On the basis of birds observed during the annual winter waterfowl survey made during January, the continental waterfowl population is down 14 per cent from last year and 9 per cent from the 13-year average, the Fish and Wildlife Service found.

Ducks were down 13 per cent from last year and 10 per cent below the long-range average. The total number of geese was down 8 per cent from last year, but was slightly above the 13-year average.

Of the favored hunting species, only the Scup and the Canada goose showed consistent increases in the survey, the first nationwide checkup since the end of the hunt-

The Sedalia Rod and Gun Club skeet team didn't come through against the Jefferson City United Sportsmen, who outscored the Sedalians "A" and "B" teams. The "A" score was 213 for the visitors and 207 for Sedalia; the "B" score was 179 for the Jays and 178 for Sedalia.

The Jefferson City "A" team was composed of Jim McHenry, Wallace Daly, Jerry Steppelman, Don Beck and F. L. Steppelman, who fired the 213 score. For Sedalia it was Bill Steljes, Bus Christian, James Anderson, John Rose and Gordon Smith who totaled the 207.

In the "B" competition the visiting team was composed of Cromer Poole, S. J. White, Joe Balkenbusch, Jerry Renn, Hollis Ketchum, who fired the 179 score, one point edge over the Sedalia team composed of Charlie Robb, Bernard Dove, Vernon Bingaman, Vernon Arnett, and Jim Hamilton who added up 178.

Sedalia's "C" team had no competition, but Dick Cole, Morris Brown, George Espelin, Jim Grady and Carl Espelin had a 142 score for the day.

Jim McHenry of Jefferson City had the only 25 straight for the day and won the "25" trophy.

Frank Hits
Line Drives

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Frank Robinson, a favorite brushback target for National League pitchers, blasted a few line drives out the middle in his own defense today.

"Any fellow that feels he has to throw at somebody in order to get him out, ought to get out of the game," said Cincinnati's star outfielder and the National League's Most Valuable Player.

"I don't mean brushback pitches. Any hitter can tell the difference between a brushback and a ball thrown deliberately at him. I do give the pitchers a margin of error but when their pitches 'slip' too many times, I blame the pitcher.

"They have been knocking me down ever since I got in this league and I suppose they will continue, trying to make me back up and change my stance.

"Others stand just as close as I do but they don't get knocked down as much. The Dodger pitching staff as a team gives me the most trouble that way. It's normal to brush me back, trying to keep me honest. But throwing at a batter is something else."

Robinson was hit by the Dodgers' Don Drysdale in Los Angeles last July, an incident that resulted in a $100 fine and a five-day suspension for Drysdale.

The figures show that Robinson has been a favorite target. In six years he has led the league in the "hit by pitcher" department three times. Last season he lost the unwanted title to Joe Cunningham, then of St. Louis. Cunningham was hit 11 times, Robinson 10.

Like most of the Reds, Robinson still is a little hot under the collar about the club's disappointing showing against the Yankees in the World Series. The October disaster rubbed some of the polish off a great 1961 season in which Robinson was a runaway choice for Most Valuable Player with 15 of 16 first-place votes.

Robinson led in slugging percentage with .613 and was second with 124 RBI and 117 runs and third with 37 homers and 22 stolen bases while batting .323.

As for 1962, Robinson said he thought he should add a few home runs batted in because of the addition of the two new clubs. "Those 18 games with each of the new clubs ought to add a few points," he said. "The new teams don't have many front line, established pitchers. At least, I hope to do better. There always is room for improvement."

Missourian Writer Of Long Comedy

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The hero of this tale is a sober Missourian who has lived half his life in England and who has written the longest, costliest and—its hoped—funniest comedy in movie history.

The fellow is William Rose, who claims to be long enough gone from Jefferson City to no longer possess a show-me attitude. He has already been shown how to make a mint in Hollywood by really trying.

To begin at the beginning—the Missourian joined the Royal Canadian Air Force before Pearl Harbor, arrived in England in 1940 and has lived there ever since. He was temporarily deprived of his citizenship after the war for having joined a foreign force. Unable to bring his English bride to America, he settled in England.

He had a hit or miss writing career in British films, the hit being "Genevieve." That gave him the notion for the comedy to end all comedies.

"I had a race of a half-hour in 'Genevieve,'" he recalled. "The thought occurred to me: why not write a picture that would be a race from beginning to end."

"Also, when I did 'The Lady Killers,' it had first run two hours and 20 minutes, then was cut down to an hour and 45. It wasn't as funny at the shorter length. Several films I wrote suffered the same fate. I saw no reason why there couldn't be a long comedy—three or four hours. It could be just that much funnier."

Rose and his wife Tania, with whom he has collaborated on scripts and an 11-year-old daughter, toyed with the idea. When Rose came here for a writing job at Universal, he mentioned it to his agent and suggested seven producers who might tackle it.

When the agent suggested Stanley Kramer, Rose scoffed. Kramer was Hollywood's man with a message; his only two comedies were "So This Is New York" and "The 5,000 Fingers of Dr. T," both bombs.

But on his return to England, Rose read an uncompromising magazine article on Kramer that underlined his willingness to take chances. The Roses wrote a 10,000 word letter outlining their idea, and it was shown to the producer.

"Stanley was interested, but didn't want to make a deal out of meeting me," said Rose. "So I flew over from England."

"After we had talked for 10 minutes, Stanley said, 'I'm willing to shake hands on a deal.' My agent said, 'Shake hands with him.' I did. The price, to be paid in advance, was more than I had earned in my entire writing career."

The Roses' first script would have run five hours. It is now about three hours, 20 minutes. Filming will start in June and last six months. Cost: $6.5 million.

The movie is now titled "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

Airlines Stock Purchased By Mining Company

DENVER (AP)—Controlling interest in Frontier Airlines was sold to a San Francisco mining company Sunday in a transaction believed to involve about $2.5 million.

Goldfield Consolidated Mines Co. of San Francisco purchased 625,000 shares of stock in the airline from L. B. Maytag Jr. and his associates of Boulder, Colo., and Colorado Springs. It represents 66 per cent of the outstanding stock of the company.

No purchase price was disclosed, but Frontier stock currently is being sold over the counter at around $4.25 a share. Frontier operates a 31-aircraft fleet into 62 cities in 10 western states.

Frontier operates in Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, the Dakotas, Nebraska, New Mexico, Utah, Arizona and at Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo.

It owns 24 DC-3s and seven Convairs. All are two-engine aircraft.

Pity and Relief Boils Up From Meetings With Stars

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Would you like a job that enabled you to spend part of your working time with some of the world's most glamorous women—and paid you money for doing it?

Dining—and sometimes wining—with celebrated beauties is one of the fringe benefits of writing a daily newspaper column.

"Imagine getting paid for listening to all those gorgeous dames," is the envious remark a columnist hears most often from other men.

"I'd be glad to do it for nothing. Tell me, what are they really like?"

Well, in the last 18 years I have met dozens of the most famous feminine stars of stage and screen—just about all except Brigitte Bardot, Elizabeth Taylor and Lash. They range from Natalie Wood and Joanne Woodward to Mae West and the late Ethel Barrymore.

And what were they like? Frankly, most of these lady celebrities were just like ordinary women—except more so.

The feeling I have most often after leaving them is one of pity for their husbands—and relief that I am not married to them.

The merciless demands of stardom robs many of them of the softer charms of femininity. The struggle to stay on top turns them into monumental egotists, and their egos must be constantly fed with praise and lip-service admiration or they turn into raging tigresses.

Their beauty often has a surface, varnished quality that says, "Fragile—don't touch." There is also a cold and brittle air about their good looks as if they had been chipped out of ice. This repels rather than attracts, and leaves a man with a feeling of uneasiness.

Beneath this chill exterior you sometimes sense in them a strange and hidden loneliness, as if they were alone in a vast, empty world.

To Present Dramas At Immanuel

The Religious Drama Company of Elmhurst College, Elmhurst, Ill., will present three one-act plays in the sanctuary of Immanuel United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed) Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. While the college is widely known for its theatre productions, this is the first time they have taken them on tour.

The students, with the assistance of Professor C. C. Arends of the speech department will bring their own lighting equipment, costumes, make-up, and sound effects recorded on tape. There are six young ladies, ten young men, and the one adult advisor, who will arrive by bus at 5 p.m. Wednesday. After supper at the church, the three productions will be given.

The first play to be performed is Thornton Wilder's, "The Happy Journey to Camden and Trenton." Six people compose the cast of this post World War I setting. It is a warm, humorous, and touching play of a short automobile trip. The mama and papa and their two children are going to visit an older sister who has lost her baby in childbirth. The mother and her family give us a joyful picture of the deep, human goodness and kindness.

The second play, "Act Without Words," was written by Samuel Beckett. Here we see one figure representing humanity—costumed as a universal hobo—flung onto the stage of life there to be frustrated with problems which confront so many of our people today. The approach is comic, but the basic problem is real, current, and challenging to our religious thinking.

Finally, Phillip W. Turner's "Christ in the Concrete City," will be presented. This play portrays the Passion from three points of view: (1) as something that happened in history, (2) as a story of universal significance (here the cast acts as a chorus), and (3) as events of personal significance (cast become characters who are our next door neighbors of today). There are six characters in this play. They will wear a uniform type of costume. When they take the roles of biblical characters, they will throw cloaks over their shoulders.

No charge is made for viewing these plays, but a free-will offering will be received to cover some of the travel cost. A discussion will follow some of the plays and those desiring to stay after the plays for further discussion are encouraged to do so. The general public is cordially invited to attend. The members of the cast will stay in homes of members of the church overnight and then leave for Hudson, Kan., the next morning.

Electrical Union Representative At Washington Meet

Fred R. Nuzum

Fred R. Nuzum, Sedalia, a representative for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 124, Kansas City, has just returned from Washington where he was a delegate for the Building and Construction Trades Department of Kansas City.

This was a meeting of the Eighth Annual Legislative Conference, with approximately 4,000 delegates assembled.

Mr. Nuzum has resided in Sedalia for the past 22 years and much of this time he has been with the electrical construction work. In May, 1961, he was appointed by Joe Morasch, business manager for Local 124, to the position of business representative for the outlying counties of the jurisdiction.

Some of the travel cost. A discussion will follow some of the plays and those desiring to stay after the plays for further discussion are encouraged to do so. The general public is cordially invited to attend. The members of the cast will stay in homes of members of the church overnight and then leave for Hudson, Kan., the next morning.

Hollywood Too Much For Pea Picker

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Too much concentration on one member of the family ain't good for the family, and show business fosters that kind of situation. That's why we went away from Hollywood."

This was Tennessee Ernie Ford explaining why he left the local scene eight months ago. He, his wife and their two sons now reside on a ranch in the rolling hills behind Stanford University, 400 miles north of Hollywood and Vine.

That doesn't mean he has left the show biz scene. Next month he will be back stronger than ever, dispensing basso ballads and backhill philosophy over ABC-TV five mornings a week at 11. He'll be doing the homey half-hour not from the cavernous studios of Hollywood, but from KGO in San Francisco.

This development has startled the TV world, and Ernie, too. "When I told the ABC people that I wanted to do the show from San Francisco, I was ready for all kinds of arguments," he said. "They didn't even draw a deep breath. They said it was perfectly fine by them, and if there wasn't facilities in San Francisco, they'd build some. Now you can't argue with thinkin' like that."

Ernie was back in town briefly to re-record in stereo his Capitol album of hymns that has already sold an astounding two million copies. There was no doubt that he was a transient here; he was staying in a Hollywood motel. Ernie left nighttime TV last season after five successful seasons. His departure was voluntary.

PICK A SIZE, PICK A PRICE PICK A DODGE!!!

Now there's a Dodge in every size. Compact, new size, and big. Lancer is the compact; Dart is the new size; the Custom 880 is the big one. And it's plenty big. But these cars are different in more than just size. They differ in style, in room, in power and appointments and, of course, in price. You pick what you want in a car, and get it in Dodge. These automobiles are different, sure. But they have a lot in common, too. Each has a rustproofed, unitized body. Each gives you low-friction steering and Torsion-Bar suspension—called best by the experts. Each has a high-speed starter for fast starts and a high-output alternator that keeps the battery charged up even at idle. Each car goes 32,000 miles between grease jobs. Drive Dodge. Any Dodge. You'll find that a Dodge car is your best pick in any size and at any price.

BIG DODGE CUSTOM 880
This one is big, all right. Almost 18 feet long. 122" wheelbase. Seats are chair-high. A big 361 cu. in. V8 belts out 265 horsepower. Custom-made for the big car man.
Manufacturer's suggested retail price, exclusive of destination charges, Super Spinner wheel covers, white walls: $2964

DODGE CUSTOM 880 4-DOOR SEDAN

DODGE DART 2-DOOR SEDAN

NEW SIZE DODGE DART
Sized right in the middle of the big and little. Two feet shorter than America's longest car; two feet bigger than the smallest. The most powerful standard 6 engine in the business. The standard V8 beats anything near Dart's price.
Manufacturer's suggested retail price, exclusive of wheel covers, destination charges, white walls, for Dart-6 cylinder, 2-door sedan: $2241

COMPACT DODGE LANCER Car Life calls Lancer America's best handling compact. You'll call it America's quickest when you try its zing. The standard 170 cu. in. 6 has the power you pay extra for in other compacts. Want to do more than just save gas? Lancer is your answer.
